ACCOLADES: Traders and centre's founder celebrate

Dutchers judged

at London's Dorchester Hotel.

Aubrey Allen was one of 20 shops from throughout England to reach the final of the competition run by the Meat Trades Journal magazine, and the category was judged by "The award is testament to the unbelievable amount of work the staff put in every day."

The store, which employs 15 people, includes a deli, dairy produce and makes its own sausages and Cornish lamb."

The Best Butcher's award is one of several accolades that Aubrey Allen has picked up in recent months, after it won five gongs at the Great Taste Awards 2005.

Dawn scoops top award

A COVENTRY businesswoman has scooped an industry award after being nominated by her clients.

Dawn Grinham, founder of Coventry's Quadrant Business Centre, in the city centre, has won the national business centre of the year award.

She fought off competition from more than 650 candidates, and received the trophy at the Business Centre Association dinner, held at London's Park Lane Hotel. She said: "It all seems so surreal. This is the biggest business achievement of my life - but I couldn't have pulled it off alone, this is a team award.

"It's wonderful that our shared passion for excellence has been highlighted in this way."

Message on travel

BOSSSES were urged to find "common" ways for wheelchair loan service, cash points, baby changing facilities, parent and child parking bays, petrol station, fitness centre, the list goes on.
